Automann Expands Distribution with New Hiram, Georgia Facility

On September 22nd inventory will go live on Automann.com and the company will begin processing Parcel and Will call orders, while LTL stock orders will begin shipping over the next few weeks.

Hiram, GA – Automann is thrilled to announce the opening of its brand-new, 367,000 square foot distribution center in Hiram, Georgia. This marks Automann's eighth distribution center in North America, and its fifth in the United States.

Strategically located west of Marietta between I-75 and I-20, this new Class-A facility strengthens Automann's ability to serve heavy-duty truck parts distributors throughout the Southeast with 1-2 day service. Built with efficiency and customer service in mind, the new Hiram distribution center features:

- Local customer service and sales support
- Dedicated Will Call area
- 31 dock doors plus two extra-wide ramps for optimized logistics
- 35,000 warehouse storage positions with state-of-the-art small parts picking module
- Energy-efficient LED lighting throughout
- 8" thick floor slab to support heavy-duty operations

"This facility represents our commitment to investing in infrastructure that ensures our distributors get the right parts, faster." Said Dennis Singh Khanduja, President "By strengthening our distribution footprint, particularly in the Southeast, we are enhancing our promise of reliable, next-day service."
