Monroe Township, NJ – Automann USA was recognized with the Approaching Zero Achievement Award at the SAAZ 2026 Energy Forum and Awards, hosted by Big Shine Energy on May 28 at the W Hotel in Hoboken, New Jersey.

The annual forum brought together industry leaders, energy professionals, and sustainability advocates to discuss emerging trends in energy performance, technology, policy, and infrastructure. The event concluded with an awards ceremony honoring organizations that have demonstrated measurable progress in reducing energy consumption and advancing sustainability initiatives.

Automann USA received the Approaching Zero Achievement Award for its comprehensive approach to energy management across its facilities. The company was recognized for integrating solar power generation, energy storage, electric vehicle charging infrastructure, LED lighting, and advanced controls into a connected energy ecosystem designed to improve efficiency and support long-term sustainability goals. The recognition highlights Automann’s ongoing commitment to operational excellence, innovation, and responsible energy stewardship. By investing in integrated energy solutions, the company continues to reduce its environmental footprint while supporting efficient and resilient facility operations.

“Thank you to Big Shine Energy for honoring Automann with this award. We are grateful to have a partner like Big Shine Energy that is always pushing us to find better solutions and to make sure we keep productivity and environmental awareness on top of mind.”

— CJ Khanduja, Vice President
